

Is onshore the key to offshore? - addressing the Energy Resources Forum

May 31, 2023

Fantastic to have our team out in force today at the Energy Resources Taranaki Forum in New Plymouth. First up Partnerships Director, Justine Gilliland joined the Leader's Panel to discuss how we keep up the momentum on the energy transition and give confidence to developers to invest. This lively discussion doubled down on the fundamentals needed for a smooth energy transition including the need for commercial stability for current and future energy producers and large consumers.

BlueFloat Energy New Zealand Energy Country Manager Nathan Turner spoke alongside our friends from Port Taranaki, Powerco and Copenhagen Infrastructure Partners to ponder the question: is onshore the key to offshore? – a discussion about the importance of onshore infrastructure in enabling large scale renewable generation and decarbonization. Nathan later found himself back on stage for the Operator's Forum – the first time an offshore wind developer has appeared as part of this panel. Tino pai!

Nathan Turner presenting at the Energy Resources Taranaki Forum